The foto below depicts the constrution kit of the "St. Canute 700 " provided by Billing-Boats. If one is familiar with the huge cardboards deliverd by Graupner it appears difficult to imagine that this small "puzzle box" might contain all the material that is needed to create the model of a steam tug that was launched in 1931.

The original boat, dating from 1870, is owned by the Stavanger maritime Museum. This type of boat was used as a pilot boat. It could be rigged quickly, so that it could be quickly dispatched to the waiting ship. There was great competition among boats wanting to guide ships into the Norwegian fjords.
